

After your meal has been hosted, each student is to complete the following post-dinner reflection. You might think of this as “cleaning the dishes” after the meal. Be prepared to share your responses to these questions during an in-class discussion.

What was awkward or hard about these political conversations?

What surprised you during the meal or conversation?

What is something another person said that made you stop and think?

What did you learn about yourself in this process?

What might Jesus have said during the meal that wasn't said?

What fruits of the Spirit were on display at your dinner? What fruits of the Spirit were lacking? Why do you think that was the case?

How was hospitality costly or hard for you or for other participants during this dinner event?
